

Illinois Pork Community Outreach Co-op Funding Program

Giving back to our local communities continues to be a top priority for Illinois pig farmers. Over the years, the Illinois Pork Producers Association (IPPA) has supported many activities to promote the pork industry in local communities.

Currently, IPPA offers a program with matching co-op dollars to assist individual pig farmers, county pork producer groups and a variety of other types of organizations to be more positively involved and visible in their communities. The Illinois Pork Community Outreach Co-op Funding Program will match up to $250 for the purchase of pork products.

OBJECTIVES

1. Give pig farmers the opportunity to give back to their local communities in Illinois.
2. Help foster relationships between local pig farmers and community members.
3. Multiply the positive effects of pig farmer involvement in the communities where pigs are raised and increase positive press from local media of pork production.
4. Highlight the nutritional content and versatility of pork.
